Sapphire Falls, Book Four

There's nothing like summertime in Sapphire Falls and Tucker Bennett is looking forward to hosting his best friend's four young sons for the next three months. This is their first trip to Tuck's farm since their father's passing, and he's fully prepared to step up for the boys. He's also thrilled by the instant attraction to their aunt Delaney. He's only ever wanted three things in life—his farm, a wife and kids. He's already got the farm. Now it looks like Fate has delivered the rest in one complete just-add-dirt-bikes-and-a-new-puppy package.

Delaney Callan is beyond grateful for Tucker's help while she catches her breath from becoming a sudden surrogate mother to her nephews. And she's not immune to the sexual tension bouncing between them. But with all her focus on not screwing everything up with her nephews, there's no time for a relationship, especially with marriage-minded Tucker. Of course, a casual summer fling is something else. After all, it would be a shame to waste a perfectly good barn...

Casual is the last thing Tucker wants. He's set on taking care of Delaney and the boys, while she's determined to prove she can go it alone. But she didn't count on Sapphire Falls, the adorable little town filled with the loving, impossible-to-ignore Bennett family, well-meaning friends and everything four little boys could ever wish for.

What's Delaney to do when the most impossible-to-ignore Bennett of all shows her the difference between what she needs and what she wants...and he turns out to be both?

If you're a fan of Booze, bonfires, proposal-inducing pastry and using hay bales as a horizontal surface, this story is for you.
