The Short Cut / With wraparound dustjacket Jackson Gregory

New York: Grosset & Dunlap, 1916. Reprint in the same year as the Dodd, Mead first edition. Wraparound dustjacket and interior color illustrations by Frank Tenney Johnson. 7.5" x 5", 383 pp. + ads. Red cloth, black imprinting. Scarce pictorial jacket is the unusual wrap-around type, with the illustration continuing around the spine and across the back. Internal side of the jacket lists a variety of Grosset offerings of the day. Bit of a wrap at spine bottom, corners touched, some age-toning to pages, else better than Very Good plus; not quite near fine. Jacket shows some rubbing, edgewear; very good. An relatively scarce title, even in the Grosset reprint edition. Action western yarn by Gregory about the Shandon brothers, Arthur and Wayne. Art gets hisself plumb kilt, and at first everyone suspects Wayne. But Wayne comes out smelling like a rose, and wins fair Wanda to boot. Outdoorsy, and you can almost smell the pine trees while enjoying Johnson's color illustrations. Hard to find in the unusual wrap-around jacket. L38n
