A Practical View of the Prevailing Religious System of Professed Christians, in the Middle and Higher Classes in this Country: Contrasted with Real Christianity Esq, William Wilberforce

The original 1797 version, manually edited and full unabridged.

“An electric shock could not be felt more vividly and instantaneously. Every one talked of it, every one was attracted by its eloquence, every one admitted the benevolence, talents, and sincerity of the writer. It was acknowledged, that whether good or bad on a few particular topics, such an important work had not appeared for a century. The great elevation of its views and principles, stamped upon it a noble singularity, which did not fail to strike the experienced observer.” -Rev. Daniel Wilson

“The religion recommended in the ‘Practical View’ of Mr. Wilberforce, is of a higher order. It is satisfied with nothing merely external, however blameless and fair. The offering up of prayer and praise, meditation on the scriptures, attendance upon ordinances, liberality towards the poor, the utmost exactness and irreproachableness of life – these do not meet its demands, unless there is correspondent sensibility and life in the heart. There must be a feeling of the divine presence – a relishing of the divine excellence – a heart-assured persuasion of the divine favor and complacency. God must be enjoyed; or there will be disquietude of soul....If the light of God’s countenance ceases at any time to shine upon the soul, the darkness which then covers it, no outward prosperity can dispel; its sorrows nothing can alleviate. No loveliness, no excellence remains, when the heart cannot taste the excellency of the knowledge of Christ. No satisfaction is taken in the intercourse of the dearest friends, when returns of grace from the Holy Comforter are suspended. The visible world is a waste wilderness, when the world unseen is clouded or remote. There is no peace, no pleasure in life, when there is no sensible relish and delight in God and divine things.” -The Quarterly Christian Spectator, Vol. 1, 1829
